Federal Ageing Plan

Bundesaltenplan

 Germany • 2009

The "Bundesaltenplan" is a German federal policy framework initiated in 2009 by the Federal Ministry for Family Affairs, Senior Citizens, Women, and Youth (BMFSFJ) in collaboration with the Ministry of Finance, other relevant federal bodies, various civil society organizations, and international partners. The plan is implemented at the national level, aiming to ensure that older persons receive protection, support, and opportunities to actively participate in social life while fostering their autonomy, especially for those with disabilities. The BMFSFJ funds associations and organizations to fulfill key tasks, including implementing forward-looking social and political projects related to older persons, disseminating political views and legislative proposals, and representing the interests of these organizations in national, European, and international institutions. A key focus is its robust support for international measures within the framework of EU projects, specifically targeting primary, secondary, and volunteer personnel supporting older persons. The policy emphasizes fostering international collaboration through bilateral and multilateral events, training programs, and exchanges to enhance global cooperation in the field of support for older persons. Additionally, the plan funds model projects to explore innovative approaches to active ageing, promote independence for older persons, and support integrating digital tools to help older persons remain engaged in society.
